Patricia Leonard

next to their dusty high heels. Wearing High Heels in a Flip Flop World will help you kick off the flip flops, open wide those closet doors and return to a sense of adventure, and even glamour, in your life.

Patricia helps women create their own better vision for their lives rather than blaming or settling for unhappiness, a lack of fulfillment or stagnation. Wearing High Heels in a Flip Flop World is a life-changing and entertaining experience for women! Your group will discover:

- A newfound confidence to take charge of their lives,
- Passionate charisma for their new roles,
- Renewed courage to shed their old skin, to make more empowering choices, and
- A fresh commitment to living their divine self!

Patricia Leonard draws from her unique background in corporate training and consulting as well as theatre and performance to create an experience that is empowering, feminine, fun and inspiring for women! Book Patricia today for your event!

"Pat brings a unique combination of practical, strategic tools for clients AND an attitude of caring, enthusiasm, and support that helps people broaden their perspective and to take the steps necessary to grow in their careers."

Mark K. Marshall, Vice President
Lee Hecht Harrison

Do you have a group of women you want to inspire to a life of greater fulfillment?

Does your group need a reminder to return to a sense of adventure in their routines, to remember what it is to have fun living their lives?

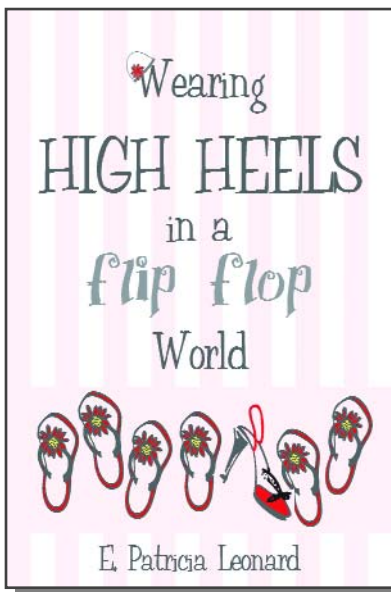

Over the years, between marriage, motherhood, a career, divorce, illness or a myriad of life events, most women learn to accommodate and compromise in their lives. Dreams and aspirations often find their way to the back of the closet, right

How can Wearing High Heels in a Flip Flop World help your organization?

- The performance of a company depends upon people being at their personal and professional best. Patricia helps team members align personally and professionally with their purpose to become a more effective part of the company's vision.
- Her message helps to eliminate resistance to change or growth among professionals - a key for companies to compete in today's dynamic marketplace. This is particularly important when dealing with mature professionals who are sometimes hesitant to embrace new technology and business philosophies.
- Creativity breeds contribution - when people are freed up to be creative, companies thrive, period!

About Patricia

One day, while shopping at the mall, Patricia overheard a woman say, "When I put my heels on, I get a different sense of myself."

So true! As a passionate woman and lover of the human spirit, Patricia Leonard has made her life's work encouraging women everywhere to slip off their flip flops and step into their high heeled shoes!

As a corporate trainer, consultant, life and career coach serving Fortune 500 clients in banking and finance, manufacturing, government and healthcare, Patricia has used her love of performing, of inspiring others and her unique Diva spirit to carve out a niche in the world that set her apart and drew people to her that were longing for empowerment.

Today, Patricia's organization, the Everyday DIVA encourages women to stop walking in the footsteps of others and to confidently step out on their own unique path (preferably in their under-used high heels!).
